

Internship in Field Clinical Engineering /SoftwareDevelopment.

Location: Flexible

Canaris Medical is a US based consulting firm that represents startup and medium sized medical device companies in the US and European Union.

Canaris Medical is seeking a motivated individual to assist in the following areas:

- Provide field clinical support for ongoing clinical trials in the European Union (50% of time)
- Provide support in software development project (50% of time)

The internship

During the internship period:

- Intern will be trained on basic principles of Field Clinical Engineering and Clinical Trials.
- Training will be provided on our projects, standards and procedures.
- Intern will actively participate in all aspects of software development projects.
- Intern will gain experience in application design, maintenance, verification and validation.
- Intern will interact with experienced professionals in the medical device innovation domain.

The duration of the internship will be 6-12 months.

Prerequisites

- Undergraduate and Postgraduate students in the following fields (Electrical Engineering, Computer Science, Informatics, etc.) only.
- Undergraduates or Graduates that have recently completed their degree
- Extended absence outside Greece (1-2 weeks) might be necessary.
- Fulfilled military obligations for male applicants are not a prerequisite but ability to travel outside Greece is.
- Excellent oral/written communication in English a prerequisite.
- Good oral/written communication in German/French a plus.
- Must have software development experience with .NET

References

References are optional but valued. They should be sent directly via email to canarismedical@gmail.com

Sponsorship

- The internships are paid.
- Travel Expenses will be covered by company.

We will be glad to receive your application at: canarismedical@gmail.com